REV. S. SPINNEWEBER IS BURIED IN HOUSTON

FORMER PASTOR OF ST. MONICA'S DIES ON SUNDAY APRIL 11TH

The news of the death of Father Simon Spinneweber cast a gloom over many people in Cameron. He had been pastor of St. Monica's church in Cameron many years. He died Sunday, April 11, 1931 at a hospital in Houston, following a long illness and is sincerely mourned by hundreds of people throughout the state and the Houston and Galveston diocese.

He was 71 years old, and the third oldest in point of service and age in the Galveston diocese, had served many parishes and had been in Houston seven years.

His body was taken Tuesday to Sacred Heart church, Houston where it lay until the funeral services at 10 a. m. Wednesday. Rt. Rev. E. Byrne Bishop of the Galveston diocese officiated at the funeral. Knights of Columbus gathered at the church at 7:45 p. m. Tuesday for special services and formed a guard of honor during the time the body lay in the church.

Father Spinneweber held the love and admiration of his fellow priests. He was a consecrated, sincere priest and one of the hardest workers in the church. Possessed a fine mind, and had read and studied constantly during his many years of service to the church and was thoroughly educated in all the knowledge useful to him in his work. He was a splendid speaker and very outspoken on his beliefs; disliked insincerity and half-heartedness. He was a friend and was always kind and lovable in his manner toward people who differed with him in their creed and was ever ready to show a helping hand toward those in distress. Prior to his last illness he had served at St. Anthony's Home in Houston as chaplain for several years.

Father Spinneweber was a brother of Mrs. J. P. Werner of Cameron and many friends in all walks of life in Cameron will mourn his departure. We extend our sincere sympathy to the bereaved.

BASEBALL TEAM IS ORGANIZED HERE

VAUGHN JENNESS TO LEAD COMETS IN 1931 PLAY

By SUNNY POPE

Taking players from the Comet team of last year, Yoe High and Maysfield the Cameron team under the leadership of Vaughn Jenness played their first game of the season at Hearne on Sunday, April 12 which is given space elsewhere in this issue.

The Cameron team for the current season will have Mr. Jenness at the helm and he is busily getting together a team which gives every promise to be stronger in every department than last years.

The Cameron Fire Department made a volunteer donation of fifty dollars for bats and balls which will be a nucleus for the team. This year it will be possible for Jenness to take the pick of the county inasmuch as Sharpe is the only other team to be organized in Milam county so far. Sharpe and Cameron will be in the Temple Telegram race this year. Last year the Comets made a strong fight for the cup but were eliminated in the final dash. With the material to draw from this year the Cameron team should and doubtless will win a large majority of their games.

Several of last years players have been lost but our losses were the gains of organized teams as they earned their promotions. Cameron and Milam county have sent several players to higher company and it is my prediction that this year Cameron will have the strongest amateur team ever to represent this city.

The first game to be played on the local diamond will see the Waco Gasers try their luck with our boys on Sunday, April 19. It is hoped the fans will turn out en masse to welcome the opening of the season.

Mrs. A. J. Kincannon of Eddy was a week end guest of her sister, Mrs. James Watson.

YOE HIGH WILL PLAY HOLLAND ON FRIDAY

Cameron fans who witnessed the spectacular playing of the Yoemen in their games against the A. & M. Freshmen and Waco high school along with the fans who have stayed away from Lawless Green Field so far because they have the feeling that Cameron has just another high school baseball team are in for some thrills Friday afternoon at 3:30 when Cameron meets Holland for the Bi-County Championship of District 14.

The Holland boys by defeating Temple and Killen and other comers from Bell county will put on the diamond one of the strongest aggregations seen in action against the Yoemen this season, and the Yoemen with big Bill Worcester on the mound promises to play it fast and furious. The old time baseball spirit is in the air. Let's give the Yoemen a boost toward the state championship.

Waco high is the next obstacle after Holland, and the Yoemen have already administered two defeats to this famous Tiger Team that spread it on so thick in football and other sports. Cameron is proud of the Yoemen. Play Ball!

T. S. HENDERSON MAKES REPORT ON MEET AT COOLIDGE

Cotton Co-Operative of Texas In Session Saturday

H. L. Fuchs, Buckholts; H. H. Camp of San Gabriel; Ed Simms, Rockdale; G. A. McDermott, Marlow; H. L. Yager, Maysfield and T. S. Henderson, Cameron, delegates, attended the district meeting at Coolidge on Saturday. They made the trip in Mr. Fuchs' big Pontiac and Ed Simms' roadster, going via Waco, a distance of 80 miles to Coolidge. The day was fine and the highway along the east flank of the famous Texas black land belt was through a rich spread of Bluebonnets, Indian Blankets, pink primroses and purple verbenas, the Easter flower offering of the rolling prairie, and on either side as far as eye could see were the fertile fields of Central Texas ready to receive the annual shower of cotton seed. This fine picture brought joy to the travelers and with hearty laughter they entertained each other with lively experiences as Texas cotton men. What did they talk about? Well, they talked some about cotton, for they are all slaves to the miracle plant. But strange to say it developed that each of these veteran Milam county farmers has a herd of cattle, pen of hogs, yard of fowls and a flock of sheep. Who would have thought it? There is practical diversification for you. Five years ago there was not a flock of sheep in the county. It brought back memories of the Feltons, Hamblins, Robertsons and other mighty herdsman of fifty years ago when Milam County was a great Central Texas grazing county. It is a happy omen that their successors of today are beginning to brag about which has the best white-faced cattle, dish-faced hogs, rose-combed chickens, and black-faced sheep. Let us have more of this kind of talk when farmers meet, for it is the best hard-times tonic that I know of.

On arrival at the fine little city of Coolidge we found the convention already in session with delegates from Navarro, Limestone, Freestone, Robertson and Leon counties. Our other delegates, R. P. Lehman and John Stasa soon joined us. There were many interesting discussions showing that the farmers of the district are keenly alive to the importance of the cotton industry.

W. J. Linke To Place Indian Collection On Display Here

W. J. Linke, who resides in the Sharpe community, will place his collection of Indian Relics on display in the museum at The Herald building in the near future.

Mr. Linke has been collecting Indian relics for many years and has about 1000 specimens in his collection, some of them as fine as can be found anywhere in the world.

Among the artifacts to be displayed by Mr. Linke is a large flint battle axe or blade made from blue flint. This weapon measures seven and a half inches at the base and is ten and a half inches long. It is well chipped and bears every indication of mesquite workmanship. In addition another blade about three inches in width and some eleven inches long will be displayed.

A string of beads gathered from a grave uncovered by erosion is also included in the collection.

SCHOOL GROUNDS ARE COLORFUL SCAPES

HAND OF CIVIC PRIDE TRANSFORMS PLOTS TO BLOOMING GARDENS

By DELPHYA SCOTT

'A Thing of Beauty Is a Joy Forever' may truly be said when speaking of the many beautiful flower yards that may be seen in Cameron. among them is the flower yard at the Ada Henderson and Yoe high schools.

Little had been done toward the beautification of this, now attractive place, prior to two years ago. Hand-some shrubs now grown where dull red clay and sand banks formerly greeted the eye. Under the splendid direction of the principal of the Ada Henderson School, Miss Erma Porter and playground supervisor, Miss Iva Armstrong, assisted by the students, walks have been laid out, beds were fertilized and now one may see a number of fine roses, the Red Rance, Columbia, Paul Neron, Lady Hillington and many other varieties are growing and blooming.

Attractive shrubs in luxuriant profusion are: the evergreen Upon, Lombardo, Poplars, Salt Cedar, Pomegranate, Arizona Cypress, Syringa and hedges of privet and many other beautiful shrubs. Spring flowers bloom along the walks: stately red lilies, phlox, verbenia, Johnny-jump-ups and pansies show their smiling faces and the native sun flower is seen in bloom.

A feeling of ownership has been created with the children under the careful training of the faculty, and finer, higher ideas are developed in the student. Each child seems to feel it a duty to help create this (continued on page 4)

Supplementary Regarding

At any time between regular announcements of milk grades any producer or distributor may make application for regrading his product. In case the applicant's existing low grade is due to failure to meet the bacteriological or temperature requirements, said application must be supported by at least two examinations made subsequent to the end of the previous grading period and indicating that the quality of the applicant's output has improved since the last grading announcement and conforms with the requirements of a higher grade. The samples upon which the said two analyses are made may be brought to the Health Department laboratory by the applicant.

Upon the receipt of a satisfactory application, the Sanitary Officer shall make at least four examinations upon samples collected by the Sanitary Officer of the applicant's output within a period of not less than two weeks and more than three weeks of the date of the application. The Sanitary Officer shall award a higher grade immediately in case the said four analysis indicate the necessary quality.

In case the applicant's existing low grade is due to a violation of an item of sanitation other than bacterial count, said application must be accompanied by a statement to the effect that the violated item of sanitation has been conformed with. Within two weeks of the receipt of such an application the Sanitary Officer shall make a reinspection of the applicant's establishment and, in case the findings justify, shall award a regrade.

adopted as the sentiment of the farmers of the Eleventh District.

The business of the Association was to elect candidates for membership on the State Board from the Eleventh District. The regulations provide that each of the twenty districts of the state shall be entitled to one member of the Board of Directors of the State Association. Each district nominates two candidates and the one receiving the highest vote becomes the member of the Board. The election is by ballot and each member of the county associations is entitled to one vote. A ballot is mailed to each member and he is to indicate his choice by marking the ballot and returning it to the office at Dallas as directed. The two names presented to the members of the Eleventh District are Dr. J. F. Moore of Limestone County and Guy Anderson of Robertson county. The Milam County delegates prefer Mr. Guy Anderson, who is personally known to many of our members as an honest-to-God dirt farmer, who, by industry and good judgment has succeeded as a cotton raiser, and who is loyal to the principles of the association, and they recommend him to our members as a good man to vote for. The C. O. O. P. marketed 3100 bales of cotton and Milam County has 360 members and each will receive a ballot through the mail. So the members should be on the lookout and mark and return the ballot at once.

beauty and protect as though they really possessed ownership in the yard. The Fourth Fifth and Sixth grade pupils assisted in making it possible to grow these beautiful plants and flowers by aiding their teachers in their efforts. An unusual attraction on the campus is a miniature home; a real play house where the smaller students love to gather. The boys of the Industrial Art Department assisted by Mr. Meyer, the care taker, built an attractive two room house on the south side of the campus. The house is very pretty with its draped windows, floor rugs and furniture made by the students in their work. This home has a porch extending all around with flower beds at sides, hanging pot plants, and a general air of home is expressed. A pretty Martin box adds to this homey appearance that will accommodate 12 couples.

A wide cement walk connecting the Ada Henderson school with the high school building, was the gift of the Parent Teachers Association. The pretty horse shoe drive at front entrance of Yoe high has been beautified and a lovely rose garden extends the entire driveway, where many shrubs are growing making it an ideal view.

T. A. Fisher, superintendent, takes great pride in the school and its surroundings and has done fine work the years that he has been connected with it, and keeps a corps of teachers that have contributed much toward the upbuilding of one of the best schools in Texas.

SOUR STOMACH

Gas Formed, Head Hurt, and Woman Had To Hold To Things When She Walked.

Kaufman, Texas.—"Two years ago, I began suffering with spells of indigestion," says Mrs. Marshall Smith, of this place. "It seemed like everything I ate disagreed with me. I had gas on the stomach, and often my head would hurt so bad I had to lie down."

"Everything would get black before my eyes, and I would be so dizzy when I would get upon my feet that I had to hold on to things, to walk around the room."

"My food soured on my stomach, and I was constipated. I had often read about Black-Draught, and my mother told me it was a good medicine to take, and so I began a course of it."

"It was not long until I was feeling better. I took a pinch after meals, and I soon found I was suffering much less. It relieved constipation, and I was not any longer troubled with indigestion."

"We try to keep it in the house, and I use Black-Draught now, whenever I feel a sick headache coming on. It is a fine medicine."

Thedford's Black-Draught is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, of highest quality, finely powdered, carefully combined and packaged by automatic machinery.

Great Patriotic Society

Formed in Revolution

The Society of the Cincinnati is an hereditary patriotic society organized in 1783 by the American and foreign officers of the Continental army assembled in their cantonment on the Hudson river near Fishkill, N. Y. The original meeting was held in the Verplanck house, then the headquarters of Baron Steuben. The objects of the society were: "To perpetuate as well the remembrance of the Revolution as the mutual friendships which have been formed under the pressure of common danger. . . ." Since most of the officers were returning to their farms, which they had left to fight for the republic, they named their organization the Society of the Cincinnati, after their Roman prototype, Lucius Quintus Cincinnatus. George Washington was the first president general. He was elected in 1787 and re-elected until his death. Presidents general succeeding him have been Alexander Hamilton, C. Cotesworth Pinckney, Thomas Pinckney, Aaron Ogden, Morgan Lewis, William Popham, H. A. S. Dearborn, Hamilton Fish, William Wayne and Winslow Warren. The state societies meet annually and the general society meets once in every three years. The living hereditary members number 980. The emblem symbolizes the union of France and America.

Unlike Many Prophets,

These Two Were Right

The centenary of the death of Henry Bell, that erratic genius responsible for the introduction of steam navigation on the Clyde, has passed. On the trial trip of the Comet, Bell is reported to have declared: "Wherever there is a river . . . throughout the world there will speedily be a steamboat." Similarly Robert Stephenson, who foresaw the development of that other means of transport—the railway—and whose name is ever associated with the Liverpool and Manchester railway, which was opened more than one hundred years ago, while sitting in a Stockton inn, told his son and John Dixon: "I venture to tell you I think you will live to see the day when railways will supersede almost all other methods of conveyance in this country. What I have said will come to pass, as sure as you live." Both of these prophets lived to see the fulfillment of their prophecies.

Legends of Empedocles

Empedocles lived in royal style, surrounded by all the pomp and pageantry great wealth could procure. He was exceedingly kind to the poor and gave large sums to succor them. He also provided dowries for scores of poor young virgins to enable them to secure husbands.

Empedocles studied medicine and became a really great physician for the time. He was brought to a woman who had lain for seven days as if dead. "She can, and will, remain in that state, without eating or breathing, for thirty days," declared Empedocles. He was right. She did. At the end of that time he restored her to full life and vigor.—Exchange.

Old Anglo-Saxon Word

Minster, meaning a Christian religious house, is from an Anglo-Saxon word, mynster, meaning the same thing. In the nomenclature of the English church, it means an abbey, or the monastic building of a religious society. In the term Westminster abbey, the word abbey is superfluous, for minster means the same thing, and is so used in York minster, meaning the abbey church at York. It is generally agreed that Westminster was so called because it was west of St. Paul's. The present abbey is the abbey of St. Peter, but is called Westminster because built on the site of the old Westminster.

Change With Weather

Some hygroscopes are not mechanical; they owe their hygroscopic properties to their color, which changes with the state of humidity of the air by reason of the application of sympathetic inks. These instruments are often composed of a flower or a figure, of light muslin or paper, immersed in the following solution: Cobalt chloride, 1 part; gelatin, 10 parts; water, 100 parts. The normal coloring is pink. This color changes into violet in medium humid weather and into blue in very dry weather.—Washington Star.

Chinese God of Destiny

The image of the famous Chinese God of Destiny before which the young are taught to pray is rather a terrifying object with its great glaring eyes, and open mouth full of sharpened teeth. He is regarded as a friend, however. The young are taught to kneel and pray for light for their future guidance. The abode of this idol is the famous 501 temple in Peking, so-called because of that number of images housed therein and where the Chinese repair for worship.

Compromise

The mother of a four-year-old youngster had been obliged to resort to disciplinary measures to suppress the capriciousness of her offspring. When bedtime arrived, the sensibilities of the child continued to show signs of injury.

"Kiss mother, honey," suggested the mother as she tucked the covers about her daughter.
"All right, mamma, I still love you. But I don't like you," firmly announced the little one.

This is to call to the attention of the citizenship of Cameron that the committee will call on all of the firms and individuals for the contribution to the club, who have so far failed to make their pledge, and every effort will be exerted to pledge the required amount of $3780. Every citizen should be enlisted in this work and be a member of the Cameron Commercial Club. In addition to the list of contributors given above, a number of citizens are paying smaller amounts, which is agreeable to the committee, but lack of space prevents their names being published. We are giving publicity to the larger contributors so the firms and various individuals, who have failed to contribute will have the information as to the requirements to be met. We trust this notice will enable our people to respond promptly and readily when the committee solicits their subscriptions which will be within the next few days.

In adopting the budget for the club it has been done with a view of eliminating the large number of petitions being circulated soliciting funds for different causes and during the past three months considerable progress along this line has been accomplished. Any funds collected and prorated to the various causes specified in the budget will have to be spent accordingly unless change is made by the unanimous consent of the Club, so it will readily be seen that the funds so collected will be safe guarded.

Respectfully submitted,
Giles L. Avriett, Chairman
J. C. Young
George Gott
J. C. Tucker, Committee.

Cameron Enters The Telegram Cup Race

On Tuesday night Vaughn Jenness and Sunny Pope attended the meeting of the Temple Telegram Cup Race meeting when the entries were turned in, officers elected and such other matters that came before the members.

Several new towns were accepted into the race to replace some that had dropped out. The race this year gives every promise to be a hot one and Cameron will make a strong bid for the cup when Manager Jenness has made up the Comet line-up.

Exhibition games are being booked at the present and circulars will be put out in due time. The first game at home is with the Waco Gassers, who will be here Sunday, April 19 at three o'clock. Modern Music Made No Hit With Lord Balfour

In music Lord Balfour took a great delight and was an enthusiastic lover of the old masters, especially of Handel. Modern music had little charm, if any, for him.

"I remember how patiently he would sit through dinner at his favorite restaurant in Paris until most of the clients had left and the noise of jazz and jingle had ceased," recalls Sir Ian Malcolm in his personal memoir of Balfour, "and would then ask the chef d'orchestre (a very gifted young Polish violinist) to play him some eighteenth-century French music."

Then during the nine months Lord Balfour remained in Paris for the peace conference his house was the scene of many brilliant musical evenings.

"I remember one evening," says Sir Ian, "when Charles Hendel was going to sing, he inquired delicately whether anybody present objected to German songs. The chief (Balfour) promptly replied:

"I don't. I will take them as part of the reparations that they owe us." —Kansas City Times.

Ingenious Methods of

Making Use of Suction

Some of our readers probably are old enough to remember the first vacuum cleaners and the interest aroused when it was found that a carpet could be cleared of dust without a broom being used. Coal is now unloaded by suction. The pipe used is made of steel and is 12 inches in diameter, the nozzle is a box three feet long and something more than a foot wide, and the most ingenious part of the invention is an arrangement to prevent the whole thing getting choked by coal dust. The latest invention in this direction is a marvelous fish trap. In this case, a pipe of great size is lowered from the fishing vessel deep into the sea, the air is exhausted, and the water rushes up, carrying with it the fish. The fish are kept, the water goes back. One more use for this kind of device is in the war against locusts. In Palestine, where there was a plague of these ravenous creatures, gigantic vacuum cleaners fixed on motor vehicles were used and the locusts drawn up by the million.

Royal Friend of Dogs

Queen Victoria's love of animals (a characteristic inherited by all her descendants) is shown in several passages of her recently published letters. In August, 1886, when everybody in London was infected with an unreasonable fear of mad dogs, she wrote a long memorandum on cruelty to animals which might almost be described as the Magna Charta of man's four-footed pensioners. "As regards her poor dear friends," runs the first clause, "she would repeat that no dogs should ever be killed by police unless the veterinary surgeon declared they were mad. That dogs, who were close to their masters or mistresses or their house door, poor quiet dogs should be left alone and not molested."

James Brogdon Is Placed In National Organization

James Brogdon, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Brogdon, 510 E. 17th Street, has just been notified of his selection for membership in the League of Curtis Salesmen, an honor organization maintained by the Curtis Publishing Company for boys who sell its publications.

Admittance to this organization depends upon regular school attendance and a record of efficient service to customers. Through this training, teachers very generally report that boys gain a sense of responsibility that tends to make schooling more real to them.

As James' friends know, he is developing a sense of self-confidence and an ability to make decisions quickly. That is one reason he is proud to show his badge of membership to his friends and is now looking forward to advancement to the next higher degree in the organization.

This is to call to the attention of the citizenship of Cameron that the committee will call on all of the firms and individuals for the contribution to the club, who have so far failed to make their pledge, and every effort will be exerted to pledge the required amount of $3780. Every citizen should be enlisted in this work and be a member of the Cameron Commercial Club. In addition to the list of contributors given above, a number of citizens are paying smaller amounts, which is agreeable to the committee, but lack of space prevents their names being published. We are giving publicity to the larger contributors so the firms and various individuals, who have failed to contribute will have the information as to the requirements to be met. We trust this notice will enable our people to respond promptly and readily when the committee solicits their subscriptions which will be within the next few days.

In adopting the budget for the club it has been done with a view of eliminating the large number of petitions being circulated soliciting funds for different causes and during the past three months considerable progress along this line has been accomplished. Any funds collected and prorated to the various causes specified in the budget will have to be spent accordingly unless change is made by the unanimous consent of the Club, so it will readily be seen that the funds so collected will be safe guarded.

Respectfully submitted,
Giles L. Avriett, Chairman
J. C. Young
George Gott
J. C. Tucker, Committee.

Speed Is Shown In Chevrolet Body Manufacture

Indianapolis, Ind., April 15—The speed of modern industry is illustrated by the announcement today that production of the new Chevrolet commercial body plant has totaled more than 22,000 bodies since October 15. On that date, when the plant was taken over by Chevrolet, designs for bodies to be built here were not yet in existence.

Sixteen different types are already in volume production, and plans are complete for building three additional types.

Since acquiring the plant, formerly operated by the Martin-Parry Body Co., Chevrolet officials have renovated the buildings and grounds, replaced obsolete equipment, schooled workmen in precision methods of manufacture called for in the body designs, and opened and placed in operation 52 body assembly plants at as many zone points.

The project adds over a million square feet of floor space to Chevrolet production facilities and is particularly significant in that it was made during a time of general business slackness. The development here consists of forty acres of ground and 700,000 square feet of plant and storage space. The zone assembly plants, all now in operation, add nearly a half-million square feet of space to the expansion.

While the plant last year, under previous ownership and management, operated on slack schedules, employment is currently running around 650 men, according to J. A. Jamieson, general manager. The zone assembly plants employ several hundred additional men, and add to the pay rolls in their localities.

The speed with which the development got under way has few counterparts in modern industry, and rivals the achievement of 1928 when the Chevrolet production plants were made ready almost over night to build a six cylinder car after ten years of four cylinder car manufacture.

MISS RUTH KEMP RETURNS FROM MISSISSIPPI

Miss Ruth Kemp, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Jeff T. Kemp has returned from Jackson, Mississippi where she played the wedding march of her cousin, Miss Rosemary Adams who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Adams, former residents of Cameron. The following interesting item appeared in the Daily Clarion-Ledger of Jackson, Miss., and will be read with much interest by the friends of the bride's parents. Mrs. Adams was before her marriage, Miss Rosa Kemp.

"The handsome North State Street home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leo Adams was the scene on Friday, April 3, at high noon, of a beautiful wedding marked by elegant simplicity when these devoted parents entrusted the happiness of their daughter, Miss Rosemary Adams, to Dr. M. Ewell Petway of Houston, Texas. Only members of the two families and very intimate friends witnessed the impressive ring ceremony read by Dr. Lawrence L. Cowen, pastor of Galloway Methodist church.

The halls and rooms of this home were decorated in palms and exquisite spring flowers where the ceremony was performed before an improvised altar of greenery and beautiful blossoms in tall vases on either side. Mrs. Harley R. Shandes sang beautifully 'Because' with Mrs. C. H. Heald as her piano accompanist. Miss Ruth Kemp, of Cameron, Texas, cousin of the bride, played Longen's Bridal Chorus as a processional. Miss Kemp was gownned in peach chiffon with corsage of sweet peas and roses.

Miss Louie Graves, of Monroe, La., was lovely as maid of honor in a creation of poudre blue chiffon with aash, hat, slippers and the accessories, a bouquet of Talisman rose completed her costume.

Miss Martha Dean of Houston, Texas, petite golden haired cousin of the bride, as flower girl, was exquisite in a frock of flesh chiffon.

Handsome Master Leslie Lampton, Jr., was the ring bearer and wore a white satin suit and carried the sacred symbol on a small silver tray.

Philip Thompson, of Houston, Texas, as best man to the groom and the fair bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage to the splendid young man of her heart's choice.

This beautiful girl was handsomely gownned in Palm Beach flat crepe which had an imported embroidered organdie bertha with inset of real lace and wore a chic hat of Bacu straw lace with touches of flesh, and in her arms she carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

Mrs. Adams, stately mother of the bride, was handsomely gownned in rose beige chiffon with corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. Kermerton Dean, of Houston, Texas, cousin and house guest of the bride, was lovely in poudre blue net over taffeta with corsage of sweet peas, as she received with Mr. and Mrs. Adams and the wedding party following the ceremony.

The out of town guests at this elegant wedding were Miss Ellen Terrell, Magnolia; Mrs. Edwin Calhoun, Mt. Olive; Mrs. Kermerton Dean, of Houston, Texas, Miss Ruth Kemp, of Cameron, Texas; Miss Louise Graves, Monroe, La., Dr. Julius Stagg, New Orleans; Leslie Stagg Morton, Philip Thompson of Houston, Texas.

Dr. and Mrs. Petway immediately following the wedding left for their honeymoon at various points, after which they will be at home in Houston, Texas.

BRYAN WELCOMES MRS. BARRON

The following item was taken from the Bryan Eagle of last week and will be read by many friends in Cameron whose interest has followed Mrs. Barron to her new home:

'Bryan's welcome to Mrs. W. S. Barron, formerly Miss Bess DuBois of Cameron, and a bride of recent weeks, was expressed today in the cordial greeting of scores from Bryan and College, who attended the brilliant reception given at the Women's Club building this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock by Mrs. Mills P. Walker.

Mrs. Barron was named as honoree for this social function which will go down on record as one of the outstanding events of the season and the club auditorium, transformed into a reception room by generous use of Easter lilies, ferns, white tapers and the soft glow of many floor lamps, furnished an ideal setting for such an occasion.

Guests were greeted on arrival by Misses Myrtle Astin and Dorothy Ette, who were stationed at the door. At the head of the reception line stood Mrs. L. O. Wilkerson, the hostess and the charming honoree of the afternoon.

Out of town guests included Mrs. E. E. Bullock of Houston; Mrs. Will Barron of Iowa, Miss LaVerne Bowmer of Cameron and Mrs. Wilson Gunn and Mrs. J. H. DuBois of Cameron. The latter are sister and mother of Mrs. Barron.

In the dining room pastel tints in a variety of blossoms and colors were used to create an atmosphere of cheer and hospitality. Refreshments conformed to a combination of green and white in which the wedding motif was featured. White brick ice cream held at center a green wedding bell and individual cakes iced in which bore the monogram 'B' embossed in green.

Mesdames F. L. Henderson, Edgar Jones, J. L. Brock and J. M. Dunn presided in the dining room. They were assisted in serving by Misses Shirley Reed Walker, Ethel Ferguson, Ruth Smith, Lola Barron, Mary Martha Black and Nina Bess Astin. Misses Annie Ruth Ware and Maurine Neely presided at the guest book and the name of each guest was inscribed there as she took her leave.

Others who assisted Mrs. Walker in receiving and giving every attention to her guests for the afternoon included Mesdames Mit Dansby, W. C. Mitchell, E. W. Crenshaw, Jr., E. H. Astin, Guy Harris, Lyman Reed, Jack Howell, W. S. Howell, R. L. Hearne, A. S. Ware, Hershel Burgess, T. O. Walton, D. W. Howell, Lamar Jones, J. M. Lawrence, R. V. Armstrong, M. L. Parker, G. Miss Viola Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rush Thomas, was a dainty little hostess to a pretty birthday party Saturday afternoon April 4 at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rush Thomas, when she celebrated her eleventh birthday.

Five tables of players, amid a profusion of spring flowers, enjoyed de lightful games of Bunco. Later delicious strawberries and ice cream were served with individual cakes embossed and centered with tiny candles, yielding up the proverbial birthday emblems, on large trays that further carried out the spring time motif.

The little hostess was recipient of many attractive gifts from her friends.

AS YOU LIKE IT CLUB

Beautiful spring roses lent floral charm to the reception rooms at the home of Mrs. George A. Thomas when she entertained the As You Like It Club at her attractive home in northeast Cameron Wednesday afternoon.

The diversion of the afternoon was pleasant conversation and needle work. At the close of the afternoon the hostess served light refreshments to her guest which included club members and a few close friends.

TACKY PARTY

A unique party was given by Mrs. George Cay last Thursday afternoon at her home when she entertained the Sunshine Club of the Bible Class of the Presbyterian Sunday school at 3:30 o'clock.

Each guest came in an old fashioned costume, vieing one with another as who could look the tackiest. Many clever costumes were seen. Upon arrival each guest gave her first name which was written and pinned on her back. A penalty was attached to any one addressing them by another name. The forfeits were sold and had to be redeemed by performing a stunt which they drew, and none dared to refuse.

Friendship sisters were revealed by description which had to be guessed. This was followed by drawing new names for the next quarter.

There were 28 ladies present and many laughable costumes were seen. Notable among them were Mesdames L. J. Criswell, Dan Tyson, Frank Levosky, Mary McLane Lawrence, Judd Davis, W. L. Wilson, John Watson, Henry Sapp, James Watson, George Mode, Graham Gillis. Mrs. Mode won first prize and received a pair of cotton work gloves. Guests beside club members present were Mrs. Conn Miller and Mrs. B. F. Robinson.

ENTRE NOUS CLUB

A pretty social affair of last week was when Mrs. Harry Tag entertained the Entre Nous Bridge Club at her home Friday evening at eight o'clock.

Mrs. Tag is a bride of a few months and this was her first party in her attractive new home on Fifteenth Street. Spring flowers in colorful array lent charm to this already pretty home. The chosen color scheme was further carried out in the table covers and score pads. Three tables of players enjoyed a tilt with result that high score was made by Mrs. Willard Keith, who received a novelty make-up set. Consolation fell to Miss Cora Mae Link and was given a novelty darning doll.

The hostess served a dainty salad plate at the close of the games.

Guests other than club members were Mrs. Melvin Ford, Mrs. Willard Keith and Miss Weiss McDermott, student at Baylor University who was home for the week end.

METHODIST CHURCH

Some people in Cameron are lost and may be forever lost unless they are saved by the prayers of God's people. Recognizing that fact we shall use as our subject next Sunday at 11 a. m. 'The Place and Power of Intercessory Prayer in a Christian's Life,' a great writer has said, 'More things are wrought by prayer than the world dreams of,' this we believe. May we not have a great number of sympathetic hearers next Sunday morning as we consider this important theme? At the 7:45 p. m. service the Evangelist W. H. Cook, ex-gangster, ex-gambler and ex-gunman will speak. Be sure to hear him.

We invite all who have no church home, who read these lines to arrange to spend next Sunday with us; let the people from the country know that this invitation includes them. We hope to have extra good music, morning and evening. C. A. LEHMBERG, Pastor.

Mrs. Jack Cammer underwent a gall stone appendicitis operation at the Cameron hospital last week. Mrs. Cammer is reported to be doing as well as can be under the conditions.

"DEVIL TO PAY"By
FREDERICK LONSDALECHAPTER THREE

The next morning a note was delivered to Lord Leeland's town house and was received by Willie at breakfast with the family.

"From Hope, eh?" asked his lordship. "What does that jumped up linoleum maker want with you?"

Willie read the note and grunted. "To call at three o'clock on a matter of the utmost importance," he said in surprise, "What on earth."

Susan said nothing, but she and her father exchanged significant glances. And at three o'clock a gaudy footman was announcing: "Mr. William Hale," to Edward Hope, the linoleum king.

He was not a prepossessing man, this Mr. Hope. His bull neck and red face and hairy hands and watery blue eyes took care of that. Willie contemplated him, and wondered how a boar pig of this description could ever have had a daughter like that. Mr. Hope contemplated Willie and wondered why his dissipated career had left no traces on his cheerful face.

"Mr. Hale," said he, "you have a reputation of being a man of the world." Willie nodded. "So have I."

WEAK AND RESTLESSGeorgia Lady Says She Felt Tired and Nervous.—Took Cardui, Improved.

Blackshear, Ga.—Mrs. L. E. Thornton, of this place, tells how she was benefited in a case of weakness by taking Cardui.

"I was very weak," says Mrs. Thornton. "My back gave me a lot of trouble. I felt like my back was ached. I was very nervous and restless. I did not sleep well at night. I was so tired in my back. It seemed to hurt me when I tried to turn over."

"I did not want anything to eat. I was in bad shape."

"I thought I would try some Cardui. The first bottle seemed to ease the pain some in my back. I took another bottle, and then I felt more like eating. I noticed that I had more strength and my work seemed easier. My back didn't feel so awfully bad when I had to stand. I could sleep better and felt more rested when I got up in the morning. I took six bottles of Cardui. I certainly think Cardui is a good medicine for women."

For more than fifty years, women who had suffered, or who had gotten into a run-down, weak condition, have been enthusiastic in praising Cardui for the benefits obtained from its use.

As between men of the world I shall come straight to the point. 'Right ho,' said Willie. 'You have been seeing a great deal of my daughter since arriving in England,' said Mr. Hope, putting his hands together. 'Now it may be coincidence—but since knowing you, my daughter has broken off her engagement to a young man for whom I have the highest regard.'

Willie sighed and pulled a long face.

'How sad it is,' he said gently, 'that children so seldom do what their parents wish. You and my governor might compare notes on the subject.'

Mr. Hope disregarded this suggestion and rose impressively, levelling a fat forefinger at Willie.

'Mr. Hale,' he said, 'I accuse you of being the reason for that broken engagement.'

'You're wrong,' said Willie calmly. 'It was another fellow.'

'Another fellow?' Mr. Hope was puzzled.

'Just that,' said Willie, 'the man she was engaged to.'

Mr. Hope snorted at such quibbling. 'She was in love with him till you arrived.'

But Willie shook his head at him reproachfully. 'To describe a desire to please father and mother as being in love,' he said, 'is unworthy of you, you know. Don't you really know any more than that?'

'You've been telling her things like that,' shouted Mr. Hope.

'What business is it of mine?' 'She's a rich girl,' said Mr. Hope flatly, 'and you want to get her yourself.'

From then on, he had the rare privilege of seeing the Honorable William Hale angry. It had happened only three times before in his life.

'Mr. Hope,' he said, speaking faster and more crisply, 'I sincerely trust your linoleum is better than your manners.'

'How dare you speak to me like that?' roared the linoleum king.

'Why? Are you ashamed of your linoleum?'

Hope's hairy hands pawed at the air. He would have liked to curl them round Willie's throat.

'You've failed at everything you've ever touched,' he shouted, 'You've been given chances again and again, and the only thing you've ever done is gamble with other people's money. You've never done an honest day's work in your life.'

'You're remarkably well informed,' Willie told him.

'If my daughter marries you—or any man like you—not one single penny of my money will she ever receive.'

Willie laughed in his face. 'You mean that?'

'I swear it,' said Mr. Hope with emphasis, 'that alters your point of view about this marriage considerably, doesn't it?'

'I can't tell you how much,' said Willie happily. 'Good afternoon.'

He burst out of the room into the entrance hall and collared a footman.

'Where is Miss Dorothy?' he asked. 'In the conservatory, sir.'

'Right ho,' she was reading. When she saw him, she dropped her book and gasped.

'Willie. What are you doing here?'

He struck a pose in front of her, hands out, eyes turned up but his grinning mouth belied it all.

'I have come to tell you that I have only twenty-five hundred in the world. I got that through the vicious sport of horse racing.' She stared at him in silence. 'I've been a bad boy all my life,' he went on triumphantly. 'If I died tonight, everybody would be happy and dance and sing songs.'

'Have you been drinking?'

'No, my angel,' said Willie, and then resumed his oratorical manner. 'If I had a daughter like you, and if a man like me wanted to marry her, I'd be as angry as your father is going to be. And that's a lot.'

'Willie, what is the matter with you?'

'Don't be a little fool.' He was standing over her by this time. 'Can't you see I'm proposing marriage to you?'

'But what a curious—'

'And your father will cut us off without a penny—and maybe we'll starve when the twenty-five hundred's gone. How would you like that?'

'I should adore it,' said Dorothy, stretching out her arms to him. For a moment there was a busy silence. Then Willie looked at her with his best grin and said:

'It is now time to tell you the story of my life. Brace yourself.'

'Never mind, dear,' she told him, 'I heard it all from father yesterday.'

'There's lots that never came out,' said Willie. 'I've got to tell you the whole business.'

'No,' said Dorothy firmly. But suddenly she changed her mind. A little frown came to her face.

'Yes,' she said thoughtfully. 'There's Liverpool. What about her? Did you love her?'

'I liked her terribly.' A shade of perplexity crossed Willie's beaming face. He hadn't thought of Mary.

'You'll never see her again?'

'Now he was more unhappy. 'Only to say goodbye—and all that.'

'I don't want you to,' said Dorothy shaking her head firmly. 'Write to her. Say anything you like, but do not see her.'

'But that would be mean,' Willie protested glumly. 'She's always been so terribly nice to me.'

'Promise me,' Dorothy was standing very close to him and pleading. 'I've hated her ever since I saw you and found out about her again. Promise.'

'Very well,' said Willie. 'Cross my heart. But it would be more generous of you if—'

Dorothy laid her hand on his mouth and then kissed it. Over his shoulder she saw her father staring at them and gave a little scream.

'You here,' roared the linoleum king. 'Dorothy. What does this mean?'

Willie was all bland and at home again.

'I just stayed a moment to ask your daughter if she had any objections to marrying me,' he explained cheerfully.

Dorothy smiled at her father sweetly.

'And I said I hadn't any,' she told him.

Willie caught up her tone before the thunderstruck Hope could get a word out.

'And we'd be honored by your presence at the wedding,' he said. 'Other arrangements are to stand as we agreed during our friendly chat.' He kissed Dorothy solemnly and with relish and went out, leaving father and daughter to glare at one another.

Some Wonders of Barnum

It was the inimitable Phineas T. Barnum who first made the corner at Broadway and Ann street, New York, famous. Years before the era of finished stage productions, grand operas and perfected concerts, Barnum's museum and its Uncle Tom's Cabin, with its curiosities, menagerie and shows, were the greatest attractions of the city. It drew from the entire amusement loving part of the community. Here was the home of the woolly horse and the white whales from the Arctic; the famous Cardiff giant; the even more famous white elephant of Siam; the very club with which the South Sea natives murdered Captain Cook. Here occurred the great fire from which, it was stoutly asserted by Barnum, the polar bears escaped by climbing down the firemen's ladders.—New York Sun.

A Big Bag

He was a keen golfer. What worried him, however, was that he found himself dropping into strong language when things went badly with him.

A friend suggested that, in order to check the habit, he should pick up a stone and pocket it every time he let slip a bad word.

Returning to the clubhouse after his next game, he met his friend, who said: "Well, Jack, I see you're reforming. Your pockets are not very heavy."

"No," said the golfer, gloomily, "but wait till you see the wheelbarrow the caddy's got!"

The Po'house

Dropping down to old Richmond from Washington, the tourists decided that literary shrines should have first attention, so they asked a negro taxi driver to take them to the Poe house. After the taxi showed two or three miles of travel, they became doubtful of their driver, but he reassured them and soon stopped before a vast brick dwelling. "Here's the po'house," declared the driver, and over the door was chiseled, "County Poor Farm." There was a $3 fare before they finally reached the Poe memorial.—Library Journal.

"Robbing Peter to Pay Paul"

"Fable has it," according to Brewer's Dictionary of Phrase and Fable, "that this phrase alludes to the fact that on December 17, 1550, the Abbey church of St. Peter, Westminster, was advanced to the dignity of a cathedral by letters patent; but ten years later it was joined to the diocese of London again, and many of its estates appropriated to the repairs of St. Paul's cathedral." The expression may have been a familiar one much earlier than that.

Wise Reader Will Not

Spoil Joy in New Book

One should read a book in the way he goes through a strange town in his car, Charles E. Tracewell writes, in the Washington Star. He does not stop the vehicle at the court house, and launch forth into a public denunciation of the architect who created the structure.

He does not assemble a gathering of the natives in the square and proceed to tell them that the traffic regulations of their one-horse town are vile, their streets badly in need of repair and their mayor evidently a snip of the first water.

No, he does nothing of the kind. He may see all these things and he may want to be so assertive, but the chances are exactly 100 to nothing that he will merely keep his eyes and ears wide open, be interested in everything he sees and hears and go on about his business, that of getting out of town to the next one.

Reading a new book is somewhat similar. A book is a journey, which, once taken, can never be taken again. In its exhilarating newness, its pristine colors, its excitement, its vividness, its commonplace drama.

No matter how fine a book may be, or how much one may enjoy its second reading, or its third or fourth reading, there can never be but one first time with it, and, this being true, one is a fool to spoil it by talking, or musing, or fuming, in his own behalf.

Native Irish Costumes

Before Queen Elizabeth

Writing of the native costume of Ireland in the early days, "Costume Throughout the Ages" says: "Since Elizabethan days the dress of the Irish has had little to distinguish it from that worn in England, but before the time of that queen who, like Henry II, made many laws pertaining to the clothing of her subjects, Irishmen wore kilt similar to those of the Scotchman, accompanied by leggings laced in by string tipped with bronze, shoes of brown leather, and a pleated linen shirt. Over all was a sleeveless loose cloak that was long and made of bright-colored wool. Some wore a fitted coat, much like the present-day frock coat with tight sleeves, no collar, and a broad girdle at the waist. . . . The women wore a linen undergarment and over this long gowns of the same material, dyed saffron, or a costly fabric imported from the continent. Their long capes had hoods attached. In jewelry, they wore bracelets, pins, brooches, rings, and torques about their necks. Today, modern Continental dress is found in all parts of Ireland, all traces of the old dress having disappeared."

Tribe of Smiling People

The Samoans are a happy race. They are smiling all the time except when they are laughing and it takes very little to make them laugh. A large group of native stevedores toiling under the torrid sun were thrown into convulsions by the sight of a tractor which they were taking from the hold. They concluded it was some new kind of an automobile with a single seat. The Samoan has little or nothing to worry him and hence his jovial disposition. His food grows all about him and his clothing demands are quite limited. A clean garment of bright colors and some cheap jewelry make a well-dressed woman and the young children wear no clothes at all. There are many short and sudden showers, but as a rule the climate is warm and sunny and the temperament of the people seems to be the same.

Glaciers and Electricity

Changing sizes of glaciers are of practical as well as scientific importance, and hence for many years elaborate measurements have been made of them, partly under government auspices, says Nature Magazine. There is an international glacier commission, founded in 1864, which collects such measurements from all countries and publishes them every year. The Swiss government is especially interested in watching the variations of glaciers, because they affect the flow of the mountain streams upon which Switzerland depends for generating electricity. Systematic observations of glaciers are also valuable as a means of anticipating disastrous avalanches and floods.

Ancient Pewter

What is believed to be the oldest piece of pewter in existence is on exhibition at Field museum in Chicago. It is an inscribed tablet bearing in Chinese a date indicating the year A. D. 85. It was found in a tomb in Lo-Yang, province of Honan, China. This pewter is a relic of the Han dynasty and is executed as a deed, or grant of land, for the burial place of the governor of Tungkun, who was a great scholar highly esteemed by his contemporaries, according to Dr. Berthold Laufer, curator of anthropology.

You Win

A Connecticut citizen, who has played anagrams for a "good spell," writes wrathfully to the Wall Street Journal that he was cheated out of the county anagram championship by the ignorance of the judge, who holds down the lexicographer's easy chair at "the Corners" general store. "He claimed," fumes the correspondent, "there is no such word as 'sloty'; I say there is. Am I right?" "Absolutely, old sport," assures the editor. "A 'sloty' is a Polish coin, designed, no doubt, for slot machines."

Yoemen Defeat Waco High School Tigers

By SUNNY POPE

In order to make a clean sweep of their series with the Waco high the Yoe high on Wednesday afternoon won eight to four. As in the game at Waco the Waco boys out hit the Yoe high boys but the local lads made their hits count scores. Eight runs on eight hits for the Yoemen while the Waco boys got ten hits and only four scores. And too, the Yoe high bunch played errorless ball while three were chalked up on the visitors.

Deancy, a left hander, started for Waco and all the eight scores were made off of him during the five innings he worked. Morris was never in danger.

Wiley pitched an excellent game and was in danger only once when he relaxed in the sixth. In this frame the visitors got a three bagger, a two bagger, then two singles in a row to score three runs but the local boys tightened up and no further damage was done. Wiley stuck out ten and walked two while Deancy struck out three and walked seven during his tenure. Morris was not scored on.

METHODIST CHURCH

Some people in Cameron are lost and may be forever lost unless they are saved by the prayers of God's people. Recognizing that fact we shall use as our subject next Sunday at 11 a. m. 'The Place and Power of Intercessory Prayer in a Christian's Life,' a great writer has said, 'More things are wrought by prayer than the world dreams of,' this we believe. May we not have a great number of sympathetic hearers next Sunday morning as we consider this important theme? At the 7:45 p. m. service the Evangelist W. H. Cook, ex-gambler, ex-gambler and ex-gunman will speak. Be sure to hear him.

We invite all who have no church home, who read these lines to arrange to spend next Sunday with us; let the people from the country know that this invitation includes them. We hope to have extra good music, morning and evening.

C. A. LEHMBERG, Pastor.

HOME
INDUSTRY

Cameron has two well equipped newspaper plants, manufacturers of stationery and printing supplies.

They employ the best of workmen and their pay rolls help to maintain Cameron's annual trade volume.

It is not consistent or good policy for buyers of printing and advertising material to send out of town.

Let's be loyal to home industry. Let's be loyal to Cameron manufacturers. Let's make it a matter for practice and not merely to proclaim.

REV. S. SPINNEWEBER IS BURIED IN HOUSTON

FORMER PASTOR OF ST. MONICA'S DIES ON SUNDAY APRIL 11TH

The news of the death of Father Simon Spinnewebler cast a gloom over many people in Cameron. He had been pastor of St. Monica's church in Cameron many years. He died Sunday, April 11, 1931 at a hospital in Houston, following a long illness and is sincerely mourned by hundreds of people throughout the state and the Houston and Galveston diocese.

He was 71 years old, and the third oldest in point of service and age in the Galveston diocese, had served many parishes and had been in Houston seven years.

His body was taken Tuesday to Sacred Heart church, Houston where it lay until the funeral services at 10 a. m. Wednesday. Rt. Rev. E. Byrne Bishop of the Galveston diocese officiated at the funeral. Knights of Columbus gathered at the church at 7:45 p. m. Tuesday for special services and formed a guard of honor during the time the body lay in the church.

Father Spinnewebler held the love and admiration of his fellow priests. He was a consecrated, sincere priest and one of the hardest workers in the church. Possessed a fine mind, and had read and studied constantly during his many years of service to the church and was thoroughly educated in all the knowledge useful to him in his work. He was a splendid speaker and very outspoken on his beliefs; disliked insincerity and half-heartedness. He was a friend and was always kind and lovable in his manner toward people who differed with him in their creed and was ever ready to show a helping hand toward those in distress. Prior to his last illness he had served at St. Anthony's Home in Houston as chaplain for several years.

Father Spinnewebler was a brother of Mrs. J. P. Werner of Cameron and many friends in all walks of life in Cameron will mourn his departure. We extend our sincere sympathy to the bereaved.

BASEBALL TEAM IS ORGANIZED HERE

VAUGHN JENNESS TO LEAD COMETS IN 1931 PLAY

By SUNNY POPE
Taking players from the Comet team of last year, Yoe High and Maysfield the Cameron team under the leadership of Vaughn Jenness played their first game of the season at Hearne on Sunday, April 12 which is given space elsewhere in this issue.

The Cameron team for the current season will have Mr. Jenness at the helm and he is busily getting together a team which gives every promise to be stronger in every department than last year.

The Cameron Fire Department made a volunteer donation of fifty dollars for bats and balls which will be a nucleus for the team. This year it will be possible for Jenness to take the pick of the county inasmuch as Sharpe is the only other team to be organized in Milam county so far. Sharpe and Cameron will be in the Temple Telegram race this year. Last year the Comets made a strong fight for the cup but were eliminated in the final dash. With the material to draw from this year the Cameron team should and doubtless will win a large majority of their games.

Several of last years players have been lost but our losses were the gains of organized teams as they earned their promotions. Cameron and Milam county have sent several players to higher company and it is my prediction that this year Cameron will have the strongest amateur team ever to represent this city.

The first game to be played on the local diamond will see the Waco Gassers try their luck with our boys on Sunday, April 19. It is hoped the fans will turn out en masse to welcome the opening of the season.

Mrs. A. J. Kincannon of Eddy was a week end guest of her sister, Mrs. James Watson.

YOE HIGH WILL PLAY HOLLAND ON FRIDAY

Cameron fans who witnessed the spectacular playing of the Yoemen in their games against the A. & M. T. S. HENDERSON MAKES REPORT ON MEET AT COOLIDGE

Cotton Co-Operative of Texas In Session Saturday

H. L. Fuchs, Buckholts; H. H. Camp of San Gabriel; Ed Simms, Rockdale; G. A. McDermott, Marlow; H. L. Yager, Maysfield and T. S. Henderson, Cameron, delegates, attended the district meeting at Coolidge on Saturday. They made the trip in Mr. Fuchs' big Pontiac and Ed Simms' roadster, going via Waco, a distance of 80 miles to Coolidge. The day was fine and the highway along the east flank of the famous Texas black land belt was through a rich spread of Bluebonnets, Indian Blankets, pink primroses and purple verbenas, the Easter flower offering of the rolling prairie, and on either side as far as eye could see were the fertile fields of Central Texas ready to receive the annual shower of cotton seed. This fine picture brought joy to the travelers and with hearty laughter they entertained each other with lively experiences as Texas cotton farmers. What did they talk about? Well, they talked some about cotton, for they are all slaves to the miracle plant. But strange to say it developed that each of these veteran Milam county farmers has a herd of cattle, pen of hogs, yard of fowls and a flock of sheep. Who would have thought it? There is practical diversification for you. Five years ago there was not a flock of sheep in the county. It brought back memories of the Feltons, Hamblins, Robertsons and other mighty herdsmen of fifty years ago when Milam County was a great Central Texas grazing county. It is a happy omen that their successors of today are beginning to brag about which has the best white-faced cattle, dish-faced hogs, rose-combed chickens, and black-faced sheep. Let us have more of this kind of talk when farmers meet, for it is the best hard-times tonic that I know of.

On arrival at the fine little city of Coolidge we found the convention already in session with delegates from Navarro, Limestone, Freestone, Robertson and Leon counties. Our other delegates, R. P. Lehman and John Stasa soon joined us. There were many interesting discussions showing that the farmers of the district are keenly alive to the importance of today.

W. J. Linke To Place Indian Collection On Display Here

W. J. Linke, who resides in the Sharpe community, will place his collection of Indian Relics on display in the museum at The Herald building in the near future.

Mr. Linke has been collecting Indian relics for many years and has about 1000 specimens in his collection, some of them as fine as can be found anywhere in the world.

Among the artifacts to be displayed by Mr. Linke is a large flint battle axe or blade made from blue flint. This weapon measures seven and a half inches at the base and is ten and a half inches long. It is well chipped and bears every indication of mesuem workmanship. In addition another blade about three inches in width and some eleven inches long will be displayed.

A string of beads gathered from a grave uncovered by erosion is also included in the collection.

HAND OF CIVIC PRIDE TRANSFORMS PLOTS TO BLOOMING GARDENS

By DELPHIA SCOTT
'A Thing of Beauty Is a Joy Forever' may truly be said when speaking of the many beautiful flower yards that may be seen in Cameron, among them is the flower yard at the Ada Henderson and Yoe high schools.

Little had been done toward the beautification of this, now attractive place, prior to two years ago. Handsome shrubs now grown where dull red clay and sand banks formerly greeted the eye. Under the splendid direction of the principal of the Ada Henderson School, Miss Erma Porter and playground supervisor, Miss Iva Armstrong, assisted by the students, walks have been laid out, beds were fertilized and now one may see a number of fine roses, the Red Rambler, Columbia, Paul Neron, Lady Hillington and many other varieties are growing and blooming.

Attractive shrubs in luxuriant profusion are: the evergreen Upon, Lombardo, Poplars, Salt Cedar, Pomegranate, Arizona Cypress, Syringa and hedges of privet and many other beautiful shrubs. Spring flowers bloom along the walks: stately red lilies, phlox, verbenia, Johnny-jump-ups and pansies show their smiling faces and the native sun flower is seen in bloom.

A feeling of ownership has been created with the children under the careful training of the faculty, and finer, higher ideas are developed in the student. Each child seems to feel it a duty to help create this (continued on page 4)

SECTION 11

Milk and Cream From Points Beyond the Limits of Inspection of the City of Cameron

CAMERON DEFEATS HEARNE 8 TO 5

OPENING GAME OF SEASON IS WON BY LOCAL TEAM SUNDAY

By SUNNY POPE

What might be termed the first ball game of the season 1931 for Cameron was played at Hearne on Sunday, April 12. Cameron was victorious by the score of 8 to 5.

This was the first game to be played by a majority of the players and their old soup bones needed working out as the error columns showed Cameron making no less than ten while Hearne made six.

According to the score card Cameron earned but two runs while the opponents earned none. In the second inning Thompson got a hit and went to second on a put out at the plate as Walker attempted to score from second on Thompson's hit. Walker was perched on second by virtue of a two bagger.

Thompson however scored from second on Miller's hit. In the seventh three runs were chalked up on errors. Then Williams went to second on a pitcher's wild heave to first base. Threatt got to the initial sack on a third baseman's overthrow to first, Williams going to third and Threatt stopping at second. Jenness then lost the ball in deep right field which accounts for the six tallies in this seventh inning.

Jenness and Baggett made four bad heaves while Threatt and Keith made one each. All the scores made by Hearne were unearned. Three were off of Keith in six innings and two on Worcester, who finished the game.

Plebeian Pursuits That

Attracted French Kings
Repairs working on the Versailles palace discovered, up under the eaves, a miniature forge, to which Louis XVI stole away to play at being a plebeian ironworker, and also a toy bakery in which Louis XV, supposedly the most disolute of all, crept off to play at being a baker.

Had his subjects realized, had Louis XVI been a monarch with a flair for modern publicity, had he distributed pictures of himself in leather apron before a forge and anvil he might have saved himself from the guillotine.

It would have given him the touch of humanity that makes kings and tellers kin. But Louis concealed his penchant for hammering hot iron; and only a few authors of court memoirs writing too late to do him any good recorded the fact that he sweated and pounded and puffed his bellows under the eaves of his palace.

It is in a long hall containing the machinery of the superb clock over the entrance door that the forge is found. Here, escaping from the affected graces of his bewigged and perfumed hangers on by climbing a narrow spiral stair the king could be a man. He could take lessons from a workman named Germain, whose simple pleasures he envied.

The pastry shop in which Louis XV made cakes and biscuits is more ornate, and down on a more dignified floor of the palace.

On the level with the rooms in which he quartered Du Barry and La Pompadour, facing on the Court of Deer, is the abandoned royal oven.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Nothing Modern About Liking for "Flip-Jacks"

Mardi Gras jollification in old England reached a climax at noon on Shrove Tuesday when the so-called Pancake bell was rung from the parish church tower, signaling a rush for frying pan and batter on the part of the village goodies, and general feasting and rejoicing of Tom, Dick, and Harry over successive batches of pancakes until far into the night.

In the words of a Seventeenth century chronicler: "Shrove Tuesday there is a bell rung, call'd the Pancake bell, the sound whereof makes thousands of people distracted and forgetful either of manners or humanity. Then there is a thing called wheaten flour, which the cooks do mingle with water, eggs, spice, and other tragically, magical enchantments, and then they put it by little and little into a frying pan of boiling suet, where it makes a confused dismal hissing, until at last by the skill of the cooks, it is transformed into the form of a flip-jack, call'd a pancake, which ominous incantation the ignorant people do devour very greedily."

By which it will be seen that there is nothing new under the sun, and that flipjacks are prepared and consumed now in much the same fashion that flip-jacks were in the Seventeenth century.

South Dakota's "Lost Lode"

Finding of the "Lost Lode" in the Black Hills of South Dakota recalls the way in which trace of this tremendously rich fissure of gold was lost more than 30 years ago. Frank Welsh, a cattleman, was hunting deer near where gold first was discovered in 1874. He sat down on a rock to rest and idly began breaking a piece of white quartz. Suddenly the quartz split, revealing a nugget of coarse gold.

He hurried back to Ouster and was grabbed by Matt and Jack Daly to work the claim. Welsh knew nothing about mining, but he found the quartz vein, rigged up a primitive crusher and washed out about $50 a day. But he cut across the vein. Instead of following it, so finally he had to quit. While he had been getting gold out of it he had turned down $90,000 for the claim.

"Dance of Death"

The word "macabre" signifies "pertaining to the danse macabre," or the "Dance of Death." This was a favorite allegorical representation in the art, literature and pantomime of Europe in the Middle ages. Death was represented as a skeleton leading other skeletons or living dancers to the grave. According to the Century dictionary, the name is probably derived from that of an obscure German poet who wrote dialogues of death. Other authorities attribute it to the Arabian word "makabir" for "cemetery" or to the name of some painter of the allegory. It is pronounced macabre, the first "a" as in "ant," the second "a" as in "arm," and with second syllable accented.

Roughness on Oceans

The zone of greatest storm frequency lies between latitudes 45 degrees and 55 degrees. The most severe storms are the hurricanes that begin in the tropical portion of the Atlantic. The North Atlantic lies in the path of the great procession of cyclones and anti-cyclones of the middle latitudes, and also in the path of the West Indian hurricane over its lower latitudes, and counterparts of these atmospheric disturbances in the South Atlantic. The Pacific is subject to sudden and violent storms, especially typhoons, but the frequency of storms is not so great as in the Atlantic.

Log of the Great Western

The original log of the Great Western steamship, which crossed the Atlantic in 1838, and only missed by a few hours being the first steamer to do so, came to light in Bristol. The log was found by an old sailor employed in the Bristol Corporation's offices among a lot of rubbish. An expert recognized the name of Lieut. J. Hoskin as that of the captain of the Great Western, and other experts have pronounced the log as genuine. The first steamship to cross was the Sirius.

Prehistoric Art Gallery

The London-Italian scientific expedition in South Africa found in a rock shelter not far from the Congo border a large number of ancient rock engravings which appear to depict human figures in a procession. Professor Dart, of Transvaal university, the discoverer of the Taungs skull, a member of the expedition, declares that the discovery is a most important one, the period of the engravings being between four and six thousand years B. C.

ANOTHER EXAMPLE OF FORD VALUE

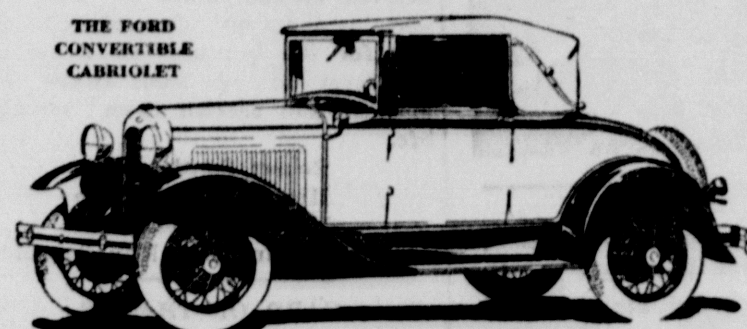

Bright, enduring RUSTLESS STEEL is used for many exposed bright metal parts of the Ford

WHEN YOU BUY a Ford you buy enduring beauty. The body finish is made to last for the life of the car and practically all exposed bright metal parts except the bumpers are made of enduring Rustless Steel.

This Rustless Steel has great tensile strength. It is the same bright metal all the way through. A salt test equivalent to forty years' service under the severest weather conditions failed to have any effect on its brilliance. It never requires polishing. All you do is wipe it with a damp cloth, as you do your windshield.

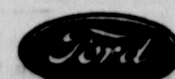

This is just one of many features that show the substantial worth of the Ford. In speed, comfort, safety, economy and long life—in the richness of its finish and upholstery—it brings you everything you want or need in a motor car at an unusually low price.

tance of the cooperative marketing of cotton and are loyal to the efforts of the national government to improve the facilities for handling the products of the farm. A Milam County delegate offered the following resolution:

"Resolved, that we are opposed to the Texas Cotton Co-Operative Association engaging in the operation of cotton gins or any other business enterprise except for the marketing of cotton."

Upon a vote it was unanimously adopted as the sentiment of the farmers of the Eleventh District.

The business of the Association was to elect candidates for membership on the State Board from the Eleventh District. The regulations provide that each of the twenty districts of the state shall be entitled to one member of the Board of Directors of the State Association. Each district nominates two candidates and the one receiving the highest vote becomes the member of the Board. The election is by ballot and each member of the county associations is entitled to one vote. A ballot is mailed to each member and he is to indicate his choice by marking the ballot and returning it to the office at Dallas as directed. The two names presented to the members of the Eleventh District are Dr. J. F. Moore of Limestone County and Guy Anderson of Robertson county. The Milam County delegates prefer Mr. Guy Anderson, who is personally known to many of our members as an honest-to-God dirt farmer, who, by industry and good judgment has succeeded as a cotton raiser, and who is loyal to the principles of the association, and they recommend him to our members as a good man to vote for. The C. O. O. P. marketed 3100 bales of cotton and Milam County has 360 members and each will receive a ballot through the mail. So the members should be on the lookout and mark and return the ballot at once.

beauty and protect as though they really possessed ownership in the yard. The Fourth Fifth and Sixth grade pupils assisted in making it possible to grow these beautiful plants and flowers by aiding their teachers in their efforts.

An unusual attraction on the campus is a miniature home; a real play house where the smaller students love to gather. The boys of the Industrial Art Department assisted by Mr. Meyer, the care taker, built an attractive two room house on the south side of the campus. The house is very pretty with its draped windows, floor rugs and furniture made by the students in their work. This home has a porch extending all around with flower beds at sides, hanging pot plants, and a general air of home is expressed. A pretty Martin box adds to this homey appearance that will accommodate 12 couples.

A wide cement walk connecting the Ada Henderson school with the high school building, was the gift of the Parent Teachers Association. The pretty horse shoe drive at front entrance of Yoe high has been beautified and a lovely rose garden extends the entire driveway, where many shrubs are growing making it an ideal view.

T. A. Fisher, superintendent, takes great pride in the school and its surroundings and has done fine work the years that he has been connected with it, and keeps a corps of teachers that have contributed much toward the upbuilding of one of the best schools in Texas.

SOUR STOMACH

Gas Formed, Head Hurt, and Woman Had To Hold To Things When She Walked.

Kaufman, Texas.—"Two years ago, I began suffering with spells of indigestion," says Mrs. Marshall Smith, of this place. "It seemed like everything I ate disagreed with me. I had gas on the stomach, and often my head would hurt so bad I had to lie down."

"Everything would get black before my eyes, and I would be so dizzy when I would get upon my feet that I had to hold on to things, to walk around the room."

"My food soured on my stomach, and I was constipated."

"I had often read about Black-Draught, and my mother told me it was a good medicine to take, and so I began a course of it."

"It was not long until I was feeling better. I took a pinch after meals, and I soon found I was suffering much less. It relieved constipation, and I was not any longer troubled with indigestion."

"We try to keep it in the house, and I use Black-Draught now, whenever I feel a sick headache coming on. It is a fine medicine."

Theodore's Black-Draught is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, of highest quality, finely powdered, carefully combined and packaged by automatic machinery. 50-2tc

BLACK-DRAUGHT

Great Patriotic Society

Formed in Revolution

The Society of the Cincinnati is an hereditary patriotic society organized in 1783 by the American and foreign officers of the Continental army assembled in their cantonment on the Hudson river near Fishkill, N. Y. The original meeting was held in the Verplanck house, then the headquarters of Baron Steuben. The objects of the society were: "To perpetuate as well the remembrance of the Revolution as the mutual friendships which have been formed under the pressure of common danger. . . ." Since most of the officers were returning to their farms, which they had left to fight for the republic, they named their organization the Society of the Cincinnati, after their Roman prototype, Lucius Quintus Cincinnatus. George Washington was the first president general. He was elected in 1787 and re-elected until his death. Presidents general succeeding him have been Alexander Hamilton, C. Cotesworth Pinckney, Thomas Pinckney, Aaron Ogden, Morgan Lewis, William Popham, H. A. S. Dearborn, Hamilton Fish, William Wayne and Winslow Warren. The state societies meet annually and the general society meets once in every three years. The living hereditary members number 980. The emblem symbolizes the union of France and America.

Unlike Many Prophets,

These Two Were Right

The centenary of the death of Henry Bell, that erratic genius responsible for the introduction of steam navigation on the Clyde, has passed. On the trial trip of the Comet, Bell is reported to have declared: "Wherever there is a river . . . throughout the world there will speedily be a steamboat." Similarly Robert Stephenson, who foresaw the development of that other means of transport—the railway—and whose name is ever associated with the Liverpool and Manchester railway, which was opened more than one hundred years ago, while sitting in a Stockton Inn, told his son and John Dixon: "I venture to tell you I think you will live to see the day when railways will supersede almost all other methods of conveyance in this country. What I have said will come to pass, as sure as you live." Both of these prophets lived to see the fulfillment of their prophecies.

Legends of Empedocles

Empedocles lived in royal style, surrounded by all the pomp and pageantry great wealth could procure. He was exceedingly kind to the poor and gave large sums to succor them. He also provided dowries for scores of poor young virgins to enable them to secure husbands.

Empedocles studied medicine and became a really great physician for the time. He was brought to a woman who had lain for seven days as if dead. "She can, and will, remain in that state, without eating or breathing, for thirty days," declared Empedocles. He was right. She did. At the end of that time he restored her to full life and vigor.—Exchange.

Old Anglo-Saxon Word

Minster, meaning a Christian religious house, is from an Anglo-Saxon word, mynster, meaning the same thing. In the nomenclature of the English church, it means an abbey, or the monastic building of a religious society. In the term Westminster abbey, the word abbey is superfluous, for minster means the same thing, and is so used in York minster, meaning the abbey church at York. It is generally agreed that Westminster was so called because it was west of St. Paul's. The present abbey is the abbey of St. Peter, but is called Westminster because built on the site of the old Westminster.

Change With Weather

Some hygroscopes are not mechanical; they owe their hygroscopic properties to their color, which changes with the state of humidity of the air by reason of the application of sympathetic links. These instruments are often composed of a flower or a figure, of light muslin or paper, immersed in the following solution: Cobalt chloride, 1 part; gelatin, 10 parts; water, 100 parts. The normal coloring is pink. This color changes into violet in medium humid weather and into blue in very dry weather.—Washington Star.

Chinese God of Destiny

The image of the famous Chinese God of Destiny before which the young are taught to pray is rather a terrifying object with its great glaring eyes, and open mouth full of sharpened teeth. He is regarded as a friend, however. The young are taught to kneel and pray for light for their future guidance. The abode of this idol is the famous 501 temple in Peking, so-called because of that number of images housed therein and where the Chinese repair for worship.

Compromise

The mother of a four-year-old youngster had been obliged to resort to disciplinary measures to suppress the capriciousness of her offspring. When bedtime arrived, the sensibilities of the child continued to show signs of injury.

"Kiss mother, honey," suggested the mother as she tucked the covers about her daughter.
"All right, mamma, I still love you. But I don't like you," firmly announced the little one.

This is to call to the attention of the citizenship of Cameron that the committee will call on all of the firms and individuals for the contribution to the club, who have so far failed to make their pledge, and every effort will be exerted to pledge the required amount of $3780. Every citizen should be enlisted in this work and be a member of the Cameron Commercial Club. In addition to the list of contributors given above, a number of citizens are paying smaller amounts, which is agreeable to the committee, but lack of space prevents their names being published. We are giving publicity to the larger contributors so the firms and various individuals, who have failed to contribute will have the information as to the requirements to be met. We trust this notice will enable our people to respond promptly and readily when the committee solicits their subscriptions which will be within the next few days.

In adopting the budget for the club it has been done with a view of eliminating the large number of petitions being circulated soliciting funds for different causes and during the past three months considerable progress along this line has been accomplished. Any funds collected and prorated in the budget will have to be spent accordingly unless change is made by the unanimous consent of the Club, so it will readily be seen that the funds so collected will be safe guarded.

Respectfully submitted,
Giles L. Avriett, Chairman
J. C. Young
George Gott
J. C. Tucker, Committee.

Cameron Enters The Telegram Cup Race

On Tuesday night Vaughn Jenness and Sunny Pope attended the meeting of the Temple Telegram Cup Race meeting when the entries were turned in, officers elected and such other matters that came before the members.

Several new towns were accepted into the race to replace some that had dropped out. The race this year gives every promise to be a hot one and Cameron will make a strong bid for the cup when Manager Jenness has made up the Comet line-up.

Exhibition games are being booked at the present and circulars will be put out in due time. The first game at home is with the Waco Gassers, who will be here Sunday, April 19 at three o'clock. Modern Music Made No

Hit With Lord Balfour

In music Lord Balfour took a great delight and was an enthusiastic lover of the old masters, especially of Handel. Modern music had little charm, if any, for him.

"I remember how patiently he would sit through dinner at his favorite restaurant in Paris until most of the clients had left and the noise of jazz and jingle had ceased," recalls Sir Ian Malcolm in his personal memoir of Balfour, "and would then ask the chef d'orchestre (a very gifted young Polish violinist) to play him some Eighteenth-century French music."

Then during the nine months Lord Balfour remained in Paris for the peace conference his house was the scene of many brilliant musical evenings.

"I remember one evening," says Sir Ian, "when Charles Hendi was going to sing, he inquired delicately whether anybody present objected to German songs. The chief (Balfour) promptly replied:

"I don't. I will take them as part of the reparations that they owe us." —Kansas City Times.

Ingenious Methods of

Making Use of Suction

Some of our readers probably are old enough to remember the first vacuum cleaners and the interest aroused when it was found that a carpet could be cleared of dust without a broom being used. Coal is now unloaded by suction. The pipe used is made of steel and is 12 inches in diameter, the nozzle is a box three feet long and something more than a foot wide, and the most ingenious part of the invention is an arrangement to prevent the whole thing getting choked by coal dust. The latest invention in this direction is a marvelous fish trap. In this case, a pipe of great size is lowered from the fishing vessel deep into the sea, the air is exhausted, and the water rushes up, carrying with it the fish. The fish are kept, the water goes back. One more use for this kind of device is in the war against locusts. In Palestine, where there was a plague of these ravenous creatures, gigantic vacuum cleaners fixed on motor vehicles were used and the locusts drawn up by the million.

Royal Friend of Dogs

Queen Victoria's love of animals (a characteristic inherited by all her descendants) is shown in several passages of her recently published letters. In August, 1886, when everybody in London was infected with an unreasonable fear of mad dogs, she wrote a long memorandum on cruelty to animals which might almost be described as the Magna Charta of man's four-footed pensioners. "As regards her poor dear friends," runs the first clause, "she would repeat that no dogs should ever be killed by police unless the veterinary surgeon declared they were mad. That dogs, who were close to their masters or mistresses or their house door, poor quiet dogs should be left alone and not molested."

James Brogdon Is Placed In National Organization

James Brogdon, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Brogdon, 510 E. 17th Street, has just been notified of his selection for membership in the League of Curtis Salesmen, an honor organization maintained by the Curtis Publishing Company for boys who sell its publications.

Admittance to this organization depends upon regular school attendance and a record of efficient service to customers. Through this training, teachers very generally report that boys gain a sense of responsibility that tends to make schooling more real to them.

As James' friends know, he is developing a sense of self-confidence and an ability to make decisions quickly. That is one reason he is proud to show his badge of membership to his friends and is now looking forward to advancement to the next higher degree in the organization.

This is to call to the attention of the citizenship of Cameron that the committee will call on all of the firms and individuals for the contribution to the club, who have so far failed to make their pledge, and every effort will be exerted to pledge the required amount of $3780. Every citizen should be enlisted in this work and be a member of the Cameron Commercial Club. In addition to the list of contributors given above, a number of citizens are paying smaller amounts, which is agreeable to the committee, but lack of space prevents their names being published. We are giving publicity to the larger contributors so the firms and various individuals, who have failed to contribute will have the information as to the requirements to be met. We trust this notice will enable our people to respond promptly and readily when the committee solicits their subscriptions which will be within the next few days.

In adopting the budget for the club it has been done with a view of eliminating the large number of petitions being circulated soliciting funds for different causes and during the past three months considerable progress along this line has been accomplished. Any funds collected and prorated to the various causes specified in the budget will have to be spent accordingly unless change is made by the unanimous consent of the Club, so it will readily be seen that the funds so collected will be safe guarded.

Respectfully submitted,
Giles L. Avriett, Chairman
J. C. Young
George Gott
J. C. Tucker, Committee.

Speed Is Shown In Chevrolet Body Manufacture

Indianapolis, Ind., April 15—The speed of modern industry is illustrated by the announcement today that production of the new Chevrolet commercial body plant has totaled more than 22,000 bodies since October 15. On that date, when the plant was taken over by Chevrolet, designs for bodies to be built here were not yet in existence.

Sixteen different types are already in volume production, and plans are complete for building three additional types.

Since acquiring the plant, formerly operated by the Martin-Parry Body Corp., Chevrolet officials have renovated the buildings and grounds, replaced obsolete equipment, schooled workmen in precision methods of manufacture called for in the body designs, and opened and placed in operation 52 body assembly plants at as many zone points.

The project adds over a million square feet of floor space to Chevrolet production facilities and is particularly significant in that it was made during a time of general business slackness. The development here consists of forty acres of ground and 700,000 square feet of plant and storage space. The zone assembly plants, all now in operation, add nearly a half-million square feet of space to the expansion.

While the plant last year, under previous ownership and management, operated on slack schedules, employment is currently running around 650 men, according to J. A. Jamieson, general manager. The zone assembly plants employ several hundred additional men, and add to the pay rolls in their localities.

The speed with which the development got under way has few counterparts in modern industry, and rivals the achievement of 1928 when the Chevrolet production plants were made ready almost over night to build a six cylinder car after ten years of four cylinder car manufacture.

MISS RUTH KEMP RETURNS FROM MISSISSIPPI

Miss Ruth Kemp, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Jeff T. Kemp has returned from Jackson, Mississippi where she played the wedding march of her cousin, Miss Rosemary Adams who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Adams, former residents of Cameron. The following interesting item appeared in the Daily Clarion-Ledger of Jackson, Miss., and will be read with much interest by the friends of the bride's parents. Mrs. Adams was before her marriage, Miss Rosa Kemp.

The handsome North State Street home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lee Adams was the scene on Friday, April 3, at high noon, of a beautiful wedding marked by elegant simplicity when these devoted parents entrusted the happiness of their daughter, Miss Rosemary Adams, to Dr. M. Ewell Petway of Houston, Texas. Only members of the two families and very intimate friends witnessed the impressive ring ceremony read by Dr. Lawrence L. Cowen, pastor of Galloway Methodist church.

The halls and rooms of this home were decorated in palms and exquisite spring flowers where the ceremony was performed before an improvised altar of greenery and beautiful blossoms in tall vases on either side. Mrs. Harley R. Shandess sang beautifully 'Because' with Mrs. C. H. Heald as her piano accompanist. Miss Ruth Kemp, of Cameron, Texas, cousin of the bride, played Longenrin's Bridal Chorus as a processional. Miss Kemp was gownned in peach chiffon with corsage of sweet peas and roses.

Miss Louie Graves, of Monroe, La., was lovely as maid of honor in a creation of poudre blue chiffon with sash, hat, slippers and the accessories, a bouquet of Talisman rose completed her costume.

Miss Martha Dean of Houston, Texas, petite golden haired cousin of the bride, as flower girl, was exquisite in a frock of flesh chiffon.

Handsome Master Leslie Lampton, Jr., was the ring bearer and wore a white satin suit and carried the sacred symbol on a small silver tray.

Philip Thompson, of Houston, Texas was best man to the groom and the fair bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage to the splendid young man of her heart's choice.

This beautiful girl was handsomely gownned in Palm Beach flat crepe which had an imported embroidered organdie berth with inset of real lace and wore a chic hat of Bacu straw lace with touches of flesh, and in her arms she carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

Mrs. Adams, stately mother of the bride, was handsomely gownned in rose beige chiffon with corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. Kermerton Dean, of Houston, Texas, cousin and house guest of the bride, was lovely in poudre blue net over taffeta with corsage of sweet peas, as she received with Mr. and Mrs. Adams and the wedding party following the ceremony.

The out of town guests at this elegant wedding were Miss Ellen Terrell, Magnolia; Mrs. Edwin Calhoun, Mt. Olive; Mrs. Kermerton Dean, of Houston, Texas; Miss Ruth Kemp, of Cameron, Texas; Miss Louise Graves, Monroe, La.; Dr. Julius Stagg, New Orleans; Leslie Stagg Morton, Philip Thompson of Houston, Texas.

Dr. and Mrs. Petway immediately following the wedding left for their honeymoon at various points, after which they will be at home in Houston, Texas.

BRYAN WELCOMES MRS. BARRON

The following item was taken from the Bryan Eagle of last week and will be read by many friends in Cameron whose interest has followed Mrs. Barron to her new home:

'Bryan's welcome to Mrs. W. S. Barron, formerly Miss Bess DuBois of Cameron, and a bride of recent weeks, was expressed today in the cordial greeting of scores from Bryan and College, who attended the brilliant reception given at the Women's Club building this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock by Mrs. Millie P. Walker.

Mrs. Barron was named as honoree for this social function which will go down on record as one of the outstanding events of the season and the club auditorium, transformed into a reception room by generous use of Easter lilies, ferns, white tapers and the soft glow of many floor lamps, furnished an ideal setting for such an occasion.

Guests were greeted on arrival by Misses Myrtle Astin and Dorothy Ettle, who were stationed at the door. At the head of the reception line stood Mrs. L. O. Wilkerson, the hostess and the charming honoree of the afternoon.

Out of town guests included Mrs. E. E. Bullock of Houston; Mrs. Will Barron of Iowa, Miss LaVerne Bower of Cameron and Mrs. Wilson Gunn and Mrs. J. H. DuBois of Cameron. The latter are sister and mother of Mrs. Barron.

In the dining room pastel tints in a variety of blossoms and colors were used to create an atmosphere of cheer and hospitality. Refreshments conformed to a combination of green and white in which the wedding motif was featured. White brick ice cream held at center a green wedding bell and individual cakes iced in which bore the monogram 'B' embossed in green.

Mesdames F. L. Henderson, Edgar Jones, J. L. Brock and J. M. Dunn presided in the dining room. They were assisted in serving by Misses Shirley Reed Walker, Ethel Ferguson, Ruth Smith, Iola Barron, Mary Martha Black and Nina Bess Astin.

Misses Annie Ruth Ware and Maurine Neesley presided at the guest book and the name of each guest was inscribed there as she took her leave.

Others who assisted Mrs. Walker in receiving and giving every attention to her guests for the afternoon included Mesdames Mit Dansby, W. C. Mitchell, E. W. Crenshaw, Jr., E. H. Astin, Guy Harris, Lyman Reed, Jack Howell, W. S. Howell, R. L. Hearne, A. S. Ware, Hershel Burgess, T. O. Walton, D. W. Howell, Lamar Jones, J. M. Lawrence, R. V. Armstrong, M. L. Parker, G. BIRTHDAY PARTY

Miss Viola Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rush Thomas, was a dainty little hostess to a pretty birthday party Saturday afternoon April 4 at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rush Thomas, when she celebrated her eleventh birthday.

Five tables of players, amid a profusion of spring flowers, enjoyed de lightful games of Bunco. Later delicious strawberries and ice cream were served with individual cakes embossed and centered with tiny candles, yielding up the proverbial birthday emblems, on large trays that further carried out the spring time motif.

The little hostess was recipient of many attractive gifts from her friends.

A Prayer Band was formed in both circles. The Auxiliary will meet at the church next Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

AS YOU LIKE IT CLUB

Beautiful spring roses lent floral charm to the reception rooms at the home of Mrs. George A. Thomas when she entertained the As You Like It Club at her attractive home in northeast Cameron Wednesday afternoon.

The diversion of the afternoon was pleasant conversation and needle work. At the close of the afternoon the hostess served light refreshments to her guest which included club members and a few close friends.

TACKY PARTY

A unique party was given by Mrs. George Cay last Thursday afternoon at her home when she entertained the Sunshine Club of the Bible Class of the Presbyterian Sunday school, at 3:30 o'clock.

Each guest came in an old fashioned costume, vying one with another as who could look the tackiest. Many clever costumes were seen. Upon arrival each guest gave her first name which was written and pinned on her back. A penalty was attached to any one addressing them by another name. The forfeits were sold and had to be redeemed by performing a stunt which they drew, and none dared to refuse.

Friendship sisters were revealed by description which had to be guessed. This was followed by drawing new names for the next quarter.

There were 28 ladies present and many laughable costumes were seen. Notable among them were Mesdames L. J. Criswell, Dan Tyson, Frank Levosky, Mary McLane Lawrence, Judd Davis, W. L. Wilson, John Watson, Henry Sapp, James Watson, George Mode, Graham Gillis. Mrs. Mode won first prize and received a pair of cotton work gloves. The Wednesday Bridge Club met with Mrs. Dan Tyson at her home on North Travis street. A variety of spring roses were used throughout the rooms in bowls and vases with pretty ferns intermingling.

Three tables where table accessories further emphasized the floral theme were placed amid this attractive scene and many spirited games were enjoyed. At the conclusion Mrs. Trent Newton had made highest score.

Guests beside club members present were Mrs. Conn Miller and Mrs. B. F. Robinson.

ENTRE NOUS CLUB

A pretty social affair of last week was when Mrs. Harry Tag entertained the Entre Nous Bridge Club at her home Friday evening at eight o'clock.

Mrs. Tag is a bride of a few months and this was her first party in her attractive new home on Fifteenth Street. Spring flowers in colorful array lent charm to this already pretty home. The chosen color scheme was further carried out in the table covers and score pads. Three tables of players enjoyed a tilt with result that high score was made by Mrs. Willard Keith, who received a novelty make-up set. Consolation fell to Miss Cora Mae Link and was given a novelty darning doll.

The hostess served a dainty salad plate at the close of the games.

Guests other than club members were Mrs. Melvin Ford, Mrs. Willard Keith and Miss Weiss McDermott, student at Baylor University who was home for the week end.

METHODIST CHURCH

Some people in Cameron are lost and may be forever lost unless they are saved by the prayers of God's people. Recognizing that fact we shall use as our subject next Sunday at 11 a. m. 'The Place and Power of Intercourse Prayer in a Christian's Life,' a great writer has said, 'More things are wrought by prayer than the world dreams of,' this we believe. May we not have a great number of sympathetic hearers next Sunday morning as we consider this important theme? At the 7:45 p. m. service the Evangelist W. H. Cook, ex-gambler, ex-gambler and ex-gunman will speak. Be sure to hear him.

We invite all who have no church home, who read these lines to arrange to spend next Sunday with us; let the people from the country know that this invitation includes them. We hope to have extra good music, morning and evening. C. A. LEHMBERG, Pastor.

Mrs. Jack Cammer underwent a gall stone appendicitis operation at the Cameron hospital last week. Mrs. Cammer is reported to be doing as well as can be under the conditions.

"DEVIL TO PAY"By
FREDERICK LONSDALECHAPTER THREE

The next morning a note was delivered to Lord Leelan's town house and was received by Willie at breakfast with the family.

'From Hope, eh?' asked his lordship. 'What does that jumped up lineoleum maker want with you?'

Willie read the note and grunted. 'To call at three o'clock on a matter of the utmost importance,' he said in surprise, 'What on earth?'

Susan said nothing, but she and her father exchanged significant glances. And at three o'clock a gaudy footman was announcing: 'Mr. William Hale,' to Edward Hope, the lineoleum king.

He was not a prepossessing man, this Mr. Hope. His bull neck and red face and hairy hands and watery blue eyes took care of that. Willie contemplated him, and wondered how a boar pig of this description could ever have had a daughter like that. Mr. Hope contemplated Willie and wondered why his dissipated career had left no traces on his cheerful face.

'Mr. Hale,' said he, 'you have a reputation of being a man of the world.' Willie nodded. 'So have I.'

WEAK AND RESTLESSGeorgia Lady Says She Felt Tired and Nervous.—Took Cardui, Improved.

Blackshear, Ga.—Mrs. L. E. Thornton, of this place, tells how she was benefited in a case of weakness by taking Cardui.

'I was very weak,' says Mrs. Thornton. 'My back gave me a lot of trouble. I felt like my back was ached. I was very nervous and restless. I did not sleep well at night. I was so tired in my back. It seemed to hurt me when I tried to turn over.'

'I did not want anything to eat. I was in bad shape.'

'I thought I would try some Cardui. The first bottle seemed to ease the pain some in my back. I took another bottle, and then I felt more like eating. I noticed that I had more strength and my work seemed easier. My back didn't feel so awfully bad when I had to stand. I could sleep better and felt more rested when I got up in the morning. I took six bottles of Cardui. I certainly think Cardui is a good medicine for women.'

For more than fifty years, women who had suffered, or who had gotten into a run-down, weak condition, have been enthusiastic in praising Cardui for the benefits obtained from its use.

As between men of the world I shall come straight to the point.

'Right ho,' said Willie.

'You have been seeing a great deal of my daughter since arriving in England,' said Mr. Hope, putting his hands together. 'Now it may be coincidence—but since knowing you, my daughter has broken off her engagement to a young man for whom I have the highest regard.'

Willie sighed and pulled a long face.

'How sad it is,' he said gently, 'that children so seldom do what their parents wish. You and my governor might compare notes on the subject.'

Mr. Hope disregarded this suggestion and rose impressively, levelling a fat forefinger at Willie.

'Mr. Hale,' he said, 'I accuse you of being the reason for that broken engagement.'

'You're wrong,' said Willie calmly. 'It was another fellow.'

'Another fellow?' Mr. Hope was puzzled.

'Just that,' said Willie, 'the man she was engaged to.'

Mr. Hope snorted at such quibbling.

'She was in love with him till you arrived.'

But Willie shook his head at him reproachfully.

'To describe a desire to please father and mother as being in love,' he said, 'is unworthy of you, you know. Don't you really know any more than that?'

'You've been telling her things like that,' shouted Mr. Hope.

'I? What business is it of mine?'

'She's a rich girl,' said Mr. Hope flatly, 'and you want to get her yourself.'

From then on, he had the rare privilege of seeing the Honorable William Hale angry. It had happened only three times before in his life.

'Mr. Hope,' he said, speaking faster and more crisply, 'I sincerely trust your lineoleum is better than your manners.'

'How dare you speak to me like that?' roared the lineoleum king.

'Why? Are you ashamed of your lineoleum?'

Hope's hairy hands pawed at the air. He would have liked to curl them round Willie's throat.

'You've failed at everything you've ever touched,' he shouted, 'You've been given chances again and again, and the only thing you've ever done is gamble with other people's money. You've never done an honest day's work in your life.'

'You're remarkably well informed,' Willie told him.

'If my daughter marries you—or any man like you—not one single penny of my money will she ever receive.'

Willie laughed in his face.

'You mean that?'

'I swear it,' said Mr. Hope with emphasis, 'that alters your point of view about this marriage considerable, doesn't it?'

'I can't tell you how much,' said Willie happily. 'Good afternoon.'

He burst out of the room into the entrance hall and collared a footman.

'Where is Miss Dorothy?' he asked.

'In the conservatory, sir.'

'Right ho.' She was reading. When she saw him, she dropped her book and gasped.

'Willie. What are you doing here?'

He struck a pose in front of her, hands out, eyes turned up but his grinning mouth belied it all.

'I have come to tell you that I have only twenty-five hundred in the world. I got that through the vicious sport of horse racing.'

She stared at him in silence. 'I've been a bad boy all my life,' he went on triumphantly, 'If I died tonight, everybody would be happy and dance and sing songs.'

'Have you been drinking?'

'No, my angel,' said Willie, and then resumed his oratorical manner.

'If I had a daughter like you, and if a man like me wanted to marry her, I'd be as angry as your father is going to be. And that's a lot.'

'Willie, what is the matter with you?'

'Don't be a little fool.' He was standing over her by this time. 'Can't you see I'm proposing marriage to you?'

'But what a curious—'

'And your father will cut us off without a penny—and maybe we'll starve when the twenty-five hundred's gone. How would you like that?'

'I should adore it,' said Dorothy, stretching out her arms to him. For a moment there was a busy silence. Then Willie looked at her with his best grin and said:

'It is now time to tell you the story of my life. Brace yourself.'

'Never mind, dear,' she told him. 'I heard it all from father yesterday.'

'There's lots that never came out,' said Willie. 'I've got to tell you the whole business.'

'No,' said Dorothy firmly. But suddenly she changed her mind. A little frown came to her face.

'Yes,' she said thoughtfully. 'There's Liverpool. What about her? Did you love her?'

'I liked her terribly.' A shade of perplexity crossed Willie's beaming face. He hadn't thought of Mary.

'You'll never see her again?'

'Now he was more unhappy.'

'Only to say goodbye—and all that.'

'I don't want you to,' said Dorothy shaking her head firmly. 'Write to her. Say anything you like, but do not see her.'

'But that would be mean,' Willie protested glumly. 'She's always been so terribly nice to me.'

'Promise me,' Dorothy was standing very close to him and pleading. 'I've hated her ever since I saw you and found out about her again. Promise.'

'Very well,' said Willie. 'Cross my heart. But it would be more generous of you if—'

Dorothy laid her hand on his mouth and then kissed it. Over his shoulder she saw her father staring at them and gave a little scream.

'You here,' roared the lineoleum king. 'Dorothy. What does this mean?'

Willie was all bland and at home again.

'I just stayed a moment to ask your daughter if she had any objections to marrying me,' he explained cheerfully.

Dorothy smiled at her father sweetly.

'And I said I hadn't any,' she told him.

Willie caught up her tone before the thunderstruck Hope could get a word out.

'And we'd be honored by your presence at the wedding,' he said. 'Other arrangements are to stand as we agreed during our friendly chat.' He kissed Dorothy solemnly and with relish and went out, leaving father and daughter to glare at one another.

Some Wonders of Barnum

It was the inimitable Phineas T. Barnum who first made the corner at Broadway and Ann street, New York, famous. Years before the era of finished stage productions, grand operas and perfected concerts, Barnum's museum and its Uncle Tom's Cabin, with its curiosities, menagerie and shows, were the greatest attractions of the city. It drew from the entire amusement loving part of the community. Here was the home of the woolly horse and the white whales from the Arctic; the famous Cardiff giant; the even more famous white elephant of Siam; the very club with which the South Sea natives murdered Captain Cook. Here occurred the great fire from which, it was stoutly asserted by Barnum, the polar bears escaped by climbing down the firemen's ladders.—New York Sun.

A Big Bag

He was a keen golfer. What worried him, however, was that he found himself dropping into strong language when things went badly with him.

A friend suggested that, in order to check the habit, he should pick up a stone and pocket it every time he let slip a bad word.

Returning to the clubhouse after his next game, he met his friend, who said: "Well, Jack, I see you're reforming. Your pockets are not very heavy."

"No," said the golfer, gloomily, "but wait till you see the wheelbarrow the caddy's got!"

The Po'house

Dropping down to old Richmond from Washington, the tourists decided that literary shrines should have first attention, so they asked a negro taxi driver to take them to the Poe house. After the taxi showed two or three miles of travel, they became doubtful of their driver, but he reassured them and soon stopped before a vast brick dwelling. "Here's the po'house," declared the driver, and over the door was chiseled, "County Poor Farm."

There was a $3 fare before they finally reached the Poe memorial.—Library Journal.

"Robbing Peter to Pay Paul"

"Fable has it," according to Brewer's Dictionary of Phrase and Fable, "that this phrase alludes to the fact that on December 17, 1550, the Abbey church of St. Peter, Westminster, was advanced to the dignity of a cathedral by letters patent; but ten years later it was joined to the diocese of London again, and many of its estates appropriated to the repairs of St. Paul's cathedral." The expression may have been a familiar one much earlier than that.

Wise Reader Will Not

Spoil Joy in New Book

One should read a book in the way he goes through a strange town in his car, Charles E. Tracewell writes, in the Washington Star. He does not stop the vehicle at the court house, and launch forth into a public denunciation of the architect who created the structure.

He does not assemble a gathering of the natives in the square and proceed to tell them that the traffic regulations of their one-horse town are vile, their streets badly in need of repair and their mayor evidently a map of the first water.

No, he does nothing of the kind. He may see all these things and he may want to be so assertive, but the chances are exactly 100 to nothing that he will merely keep his eyes and ears wide open, be interested in everything he sees and hears and go on about his business, that of getting out of town to the next one.

Reading a new book is somewhat similar. A book is a journey, which, once taken, can never be taken again. In its exhilarating newness, its pristine colors, its excitement, its vividness, its commonplace drama.

No matter how fine a book may be, or how much one may enjoy its second reading, or its third or fourth reading, there can never be but one first time with it, and, this being true, one is a fool to spoil it by talking, or snoring, or fuming, in his own behalf.

Native Irish Costumes

Before Queen Elizabeth

Writing of the native costume of Ireland in the early days, "Costume Throughout the Ages" says: "Since Elizabethan days the dress of the Irish has had little to distinguish it from that worn in England, but before the time of that queen who, like Henry VIII, made many laws pertaining to the clothing of her subjects, Irishmen wore kilt similar to those of the Scotchman, accompanied by leggings laced in by string tipped with bronze, shoes of brown leather, and a pleated linen shirt. Over all was a sleeveless loose cloak that was long and made of bright-colored wool. Some wore a fitted coat, much like the present-day frock coat with tight sleeves, no collar, and a broad girdle at the waist. . . . The women wore a linen undergarment and over this long gowns of the same material, dyed saffron, or a costly fabric imported from the continent. Their long capes had hoods attached. In jewelry, they wore bracelets, pins, brooches, rings, and torques about their necks. Today, modern Continental dress is found in all parts of Ireland, all traces of the old dress having disappeared."

Tribe of Smiling People

The Samoans are a happy race. They are smiling all the time except when they are laughing and it takes very little to make them laugh. A large group of native stevedores toiling under the torrid sun were thrown into convulsions by the sight of a tractor which they were taking from the hold. They concluded it was some new kind of an automobile with a single seat. The Samoan has little or nothing to worry him and hence his jovial disposition. His food grows all about him and his clothing demands are quite limited. A clean garment of bright colors and some cheap jewelry make a well-dressed woman and the young children wear no clothes at all. There are many short and sudden showers, but as a rule the climate is warm and sunny and the temperament of the people seems to be the same.

Glaciers and Electricity

Changing sizes of glaciers are of practical as well as scientific importance, and hence for many years elaborate measurements have been made of them, partly under government auspices, says Nature Magazine. There is an international glacier commission, founded in 1864, which collects such measurements from all countries and publishes them every year. The Swiss government is especially interested in watching the variations of glaciers, because they affect the flow of the mountain streams upon which Switzerland depends for generating electricity. Systematic observations of glaciers are also valuable as a means of anticipating disastrous avalanches and floods.

Ancient Pewter

What is believed to be the oldest piece of pewter in existence is on exhibition at Field museum in Chicago. It is an inscribed tablet bearing in Chinese a date indicating the year A. D. 85. It was found in a tomb in Lo-Yang, province of Honan, China. This pewter is a relic of the Han dynasty and is executed as a deed, or grant of land, for the burial place of the governor of Tungku, who was a great scholar highly esteemed by his contemporaries, according to Dr. Berthold Laufer, curator of anthropology.

You Win

A Connecticut citizen, who has played anagrams for a "good spell," writes wrathfully to the Wall Street Journal that he was cheated out of the county anagram championship by the ignorance of the judge, who holds down the lexicographer's easy chair at "the Corners" general store. "He claimed," fumes the correspondent, "there is no such word as 'sloty'; I say there is. Am I right?" "Absolutely, old sport," answers the editor. "A 'sloty' is a Polish coin, designed, no doubt, for slot machines."

Yoemen Defeat Waco High School Tigers

By SUNNY POPE

In order to make a clean sweep of their series with the Waco high the Yoe high on Wednesday afternoon won eight to four. As in the game at Waco the Waco boys out hit the Yoe high boys but the local lads made their hits count scores. Eight runs on eight hits for the Yoemen while the Waco boys got ten hits and only four scores. And too, the Yoe high bunch played errorless ball while three were chalked up on the visitors.

Deancy, a left hander, started for Waco and all the eight scores were made off of him during the five innings he worked. Morris was never in danger.

Wiley pitched an excellent game and was in danger only once when he relaxed in the sixth. In this frame the visitors got a three bagger, a two bagger, then two singles in a row to score three runs but the local boys tightened up and no further damage was done. Wiley stuck out ten and walked two while Deancy struck out three and walked seven during his tenure. Morris was not scored on.

METHODIST CHURCH

Some people in Cameron are lost and may be forever lost unless they are saved by the prayers of God's people. Recognizing that fact we shall use as our subject next Sunday at 11 a. m. 'The Place and Power of Intercessory Prayer in a Christian's Life,' a great writer has said, 'More things are wrought by prayer than the world dreams of,' this we believe. May we not have a great number of sympathetic hearers next Sunday morning as we consider this important theme? At the 7:45 p. m. service the Evangelist W. H. Cook, ex-gangster, ex-gambler and ex-gunman will speak. Be sure to hear him.

We invite all who have no church home, who read these lines to arrange to spend next Sunday with us; let the people from the country know that this invitation includes them. We hope to have extra good music, morning and evening.

C. A. LEHMBERG, Pastor.

HOME

INDUSTRY

Cameron has two well equipped newspaper plants, manufacturers of stationery and printing supplies.

They employ the best of workmen and their pay rolls help to maintain Cameron's annual trade volume.

It is not consistent or good policy for buyers of printing and advertising material to send out of town.

Let's be loyal to home industry. Let's be loyal to Cameron manufacturers. Let's make it a matter for practice and not merely to proclaim.
